S. V. HENKELS, ESQ.

Dear Sir :—

I have concluded to send you all my Autographs, just as they are. I have been trying for a long while to get time to arrange them, but my portrait collection has reached such size and interest that it takes all the leisure I can command, and the Autographs will have to stand out of the way.

Yours truly,

JAMES T. MITCHELL.

August 24, 1894.

REMARKS.

THIS valuable accumulation of autograph letters and historical documents is the outcome of many years of untiring research by the Hon. James T. Mitchell, it being his intention to make up a complete set of all the Colonial and recent American Judges; but as his main hobby has always been the collecting of rare engraved portraits, and as his duties as a Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania have proved so arduous—taking up most all of his time—he has found it necessary, in order to make one collection complete, to give up one or the other—either the autographs or the portraits. He has decided, therefore, to follow the bent of his feelings and continue collecting portraits, and consequently has placed the collection of autographs in my hands to be sold.

It is one of the very few opportunities that have been offered for years to possess fine specimens of autographs of prominent characters of the American revolutionary period; of the early Puritans, who had to do with the witches and witchcraft; of rare names connected with the judicial history of our country; of persons who have obtained prominence in the literary world; of American military heroes, etc. In fact, there is not a page in the whole catalogue but what contains some one item of interest. Judge Mitchell's letter, which heads this short preamble, explains his reason for selling.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL COLLECTION.

The material enumerated in the catalogue, under the above heading, embraces the entire collection of the Lincoln Memorial Association, which was viewed by hundreds of thousands of Lincoln's admirers while on exhibition in Chicago ; and it was admitted that it contained more items of interest relating to the great and good man than any other collection of the kind in the country. It embraces the furniture from Lincoln's house, purchased at the time he left Springfield to take his seat at Washington as President ; also his marriage certificate, legal papers, letters, documents, law-books, etc., each fully authenticated by direct purchasers from Abraham Lincoln.

There are also several relics at the end of the catalogue that should attract the attention of those interested in relics of the Plymouth Pilgrims.

Dear Sir,

Yours of the 22nd ult^o came duly to hand
I most heartily regret the Misfortune of our fleet at Pensacot - 'tis the fortune of war - Spain has at length taken an active part in the war with France against England - it is believed that England will make further overtures of peace to America but all will be of no avail untill she acknowledges our Independance - a brig has arrived from St Linstien with 40 Tun of powder - Congress has resolved that they will on no account whatever emit more than 200,000.000 of dollars & mean to depend on the exertions of the States by loans & Taxes to supply the Treasury -

I send herewith a paper to which I refer you for the News - the Journals you mention are to be had - the difficulty lies in the conveyance my Compl^{ts} to Mrs Elsworth -

I am dear Sir with respect to you, your Obed^t humble Serv^t

* * * "but summoned again, as you were, from your retirement by the united voice and the obvious welfare of your country, you did not hesitate to furnish one more Proof that, in comparision to the great Duties of social life, all objects of a private Nature are with you but secondary considerations, and to this your ruling Passion of Love for your country it is that we owe the opportunity now offered of congratulating you on your safe arrival in the city of Savannah. An office, we the committee, under the strongest impressions of sensibility and attachment, execute in the name and Behalf of a respected and grateful number of Citizens.
"History furnishes Instances of some eminently qualified for the field, and of others endowed with Talents adequate to the intricate affairs of state, but you, sir, have enriched the Annals of America with a proof to be sent abroad to all mankind that however rare the association, the Virtues and Talents of Soldier and republican statesman will sometimes dwell together and both characters derive additional lustre from a subserviency to the Precepts of Religion," etc.

Highly important letter voicing the sentiments of the New Jersey patriots.

"To the Committee of Correspondence for the Borough of Elizabeth.

"GENTLEMEN:—The very alarming Intelligence we have just received induces us to fear that the Friends of American Liberty will be compelled to resort to the last Appeal for the Protection of their Rights. In this Extremity when no Time should be lost from Preparation, we think that a Communication of Sentiment from the different Parts of our Province should take Place, and that no Mode of doing this is so proper as that of a Provincial Congress. Should our Brethren concur with us in this Opinion, we would be glad that the Members of the Committee of Correspondence for the Province, to whom it seems to belong, would, together with the Chairman, appoint a speedy Day for such Convention. These Sentiments, should they even appear to be erroneous, will need no Apology as they come from Persons who would wish not to be wanting to the common Cause; and the Suddenness of the Occasion hardly admits of formally convening the different Committees. Several of the Committee of Correspondence are in your Neighborhood, or within your Influence, which is the Reason of our addressing ourselves to you in this Way.

"The above is taken as the Sense of a Meeting of the Inhabitants of Princeton and the Neighborhood, together with some of the Members of the Committees of Somerset, Middlesex and Hunterdon.—It is further desired of our Brethren to consider whether it may not be proper to fix some Day shortly before the Meeting of the Continental Congress and not too early to be notified to the more distant Parts of the Colony.—We have thought of Friday, 5 May.

"By order of the Meeting,

"Dated at Princeton, JONA D. SERGEANT, Clerk.
"24 April, 1775.

"P. S.—It is requested the Contents of this Letter may be communicated on the Passage to the Committees at N. Brunswick & Woodbridge."

"I have this evening received the disagreeable news of the defeat of General St. Clair. We have not an official account, but there are letters in this city which came in such way and with such particular circumstances as to leave little or no doubt, in the opinion of any one I have seen, of the melancholy fact. The information is that on Nov. 4, General St. Clair had approached within about fifteen miles of the Miami towns with twelve hundred Continental militia troops; that he was apprised of the Indians hovering around him & expected an attack & had disposed his men to receive them. That the Indians made their assault about day-light in the morning by firing once & then immediately rushing on to our men with their other weapons of death. That their principal attack was aimed against that part of our army where the militia were posted, who soon gave way & a sad slaughter ensued. It is said that we have lost six hundred men, among whom there are between thirty and forty officers." Etc.

Highly important historical letter, written in the year of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

“Our affairs in Canada wear a favorable Appearance, or rather at Ticonderoga & Crown Point; where by ye last returns ye Army were ab’t thirteen thousand strong of w’ch about 3000 were unfit for Duty, in addition to these six other Regiments were on their March from Connecticut & Massachusetts, & about four Regiments at other different posts, at New York things for ye present are a little shattered by Means of ye Retreat, but ye Skirmish on long Island has served to convince our Army that they are now able with ye Regiments that are disciplined, to meet ye Enemy on equal Terms. General Lee is ordered to reinforce them with several Regiments from ye Southward & one from Rhode Island & with firm Conduct our Generals may yet baffle ye Enemy. There is reason to imagine that ye Enemy have suffered more than our Army including ye captives, & Lord Howe has sent to Congress by General Sullivan a Desire of conferring w’th some Members of its Body in a private Capacity, not doubting that he can afford such Terms of peace as will be acceptable & proposing to treat w’th ye Congress when ye same are acceded to, but the whole is considered as an artifice to divide, by leading ye people to suppose that his Lordship has used every Method for obtaining Peace while on our Part they have been rejected. to turn ye Stratagem upon him Congress have resolved that being ye Representatives of ye independent States of America, they cannot send a Committee but in their public Capacity, & that being ever ready to listen to Terms of peace they will send a Committee to know his Lordship’s Powers & proposals & to enquire what ye Terms are which he has to offer to ye Continent. The Committee are appointed, altho’ against ye Mind of every Member from ye State which I represent, as well as Rhode Island & Georgia who are apprehensive that ye Appointment previous to his Lordship’s assurance that he will receive them will wear ye Appearance of an over great Desire for Peace which is neither consistent with Dignity or true Policy & be construed as an Act of Timidity very discouraging to ye States & animating to ye Enemy, but ye Gentlemen on ye other Side are very desirous of drawing out his Lordship’s proposals that if good they may be accepted & if bad exposed, which is a good Design if accomplished in a way that will not disagreeably effect ye Continent. It is expected that ye Committee will not be received, & if they are, any proposals w’ch his Lordship may offer that do not allow ye States to be independent, will be without Hesitation rejected.” Etc.

- 199 Gerry, Elbridge. A. L. S. 4to. 4 pp. Philadelphia, June 27, 1777. To John Wendell.

"The spirit shewn by ye Jersey Militia upon ye Movement of General Howe, is a favourable Circumstance to our affairs, & greatly tends to intimidate our Enemies, he marched with but part of his Army to Somerset Court House, about ten Miles from Brunswick in Hopes of tempting our General to immediate Action, but this being avoided, untill a Body of Troops that were posted at peaks Kill could reinforce our Army & ye Militia be Collected, Mr. Howe then tho't it not for his Interest to risque a Battle, and retired to Amboy, had General Washington left his post, to have attacked General Howe, ye latter might have slowly retreated towards Brunswick, untill joined by ye residue of his Troops, & then ye Combat would have been nearly with equal Numbers on each side, and might have been hazardous; but when reinforced as before mentioned, I think G— Was— had a promising prospect of defeating ye Enemy.

"An attack may be expected on Tyconderoga; I hope ye New Hampshire Battalions have their Complement of Men, or that their Deficiency is supplied with Militia, as ye carrying that post may give spirit to ye Enemy & bring ye War neare to our Door; altho I really think it would not be much injurious to our cause." Etc.

- 201 Gerry, Elbridge. A. L. S. Folio. 3 pp. Philadelphia, May 16, 1780. To John Wendell.

"The Marquis de Lafayette arrived in this City ye last Evening & I had ye Pleasure of a visit from him with letters from our friends Mr. Adams and Mr. Dana. They are agreeably situated in Paris, waiting ye events of War to produce an Alteration in ye mad Disposition of ye Ministry of G. Britain which nothing but misfortune can alter." * * * "Charleston was safe on ye 20th of April, but General Lincoln informed ye Governor of Virginia, that Troops were wanted." Etc.

- 202 Gerry, Elbridge. A. L. S. 4to. Cambridge, November 16, 1787. To John Wendell.

"If the new Constitution should be adopted I shall think it my duty to support it, but as it now stands I think it neither consistent with the principles of the Revolution, or of the Constitutions of the several States, & it is condemned by the best Writers on free Governments, indeed the eastern States will soon rebel against it, for it is not a Government adapted to their Genius, Habits, or aversion to arbitrary power, but if they are of a different opinion, I have no objection to their trying on the foederal chains, for such I am persuaded they will find the bonds of this constitution eventually to be. This entre nous." Etc.

- 203 Gerry, Elbridge. A. L. S. Folio. 3 pp. New York, July 4, 1790. To John Wendell. With address.

"The uneasiness of the people arises more from a disappointment of the immediate benefits they were promised from the operation of the new Constitution, than from other causes, I always predicted discontent from this cause, for when the proper line of policy was to prepare the people at the time they weré ratifying the Constitution, for a patient submission to the Administration thereof until the good effects could be attained, they were elated with promises that as soon as the government could be put in motion commerce, manufactures & agriculture would flourish, the value of lands would be enhanced, the public debts would be funded, money would be plenty, &c &c &c & their inevitable disappointment produces uneasiness." Etc.

- 204 Gerry, Elbridge. A. L. S. 4to. 3 pp. Cambridge, Jan. 12, 1799. To John Wendell. With address.

"I will give Boston the credit, of being a place the most inimical to me of any on the globe, the office which I lately filled, contrary to my wishes, was probably sought for by one of a party in that & a neighbouring town, who have been always my antipodes; and for what reasons, I know not, unless for my original sins of Independence." G. Saultonstad.

About a week since arrived a small vessel at Salem from Louisa having had about six weeks passage from thence, what intelligence he brings you will find in the enclosed Gazette and Letters which after your personal service Col. Stanwellton may have the sight of them. No other vessel from Norwich ports has lately come in hither I hope the next will be the Lord Bellomont with the ships from London. The Indian Company are busy buckling about our frontiers and every now and then surprising

I had the favour of yours of the 26th of July past and of the 2^d of August, current, with the interesting news therein conveyed. most agreeable. I believe your Lady my hearty thanks.

The House of Commons don't against Cartwrights will much amirite the French along wth Master and be a very considerable supply for his further feeding out the War, wth that plunder got safe home I am very desirous for the unhappy disappointment of Edmund Nevil especially meeting with Lord's Squadron.

I earnestly long to receive good Intelligence of the Squadron gone for Newfoundland. I have not heard anything from or concerning them.

About a week time arrived a small vessel at Dublin from Limerick having had about six week passage from thence, wth Intelligence he brings you will find in the enclosed Gazette and Letter which after your personal perusal let Hamilton may have the sight of them. No other vessel from Stourough parts has lately come wth hither I hope the next will be the Lord Stilemont with the Ship from London. The French Army are busy fudding about our Frontiers and every narrow how carrying

We quote from the "Memorial History of Boston":—"In 1697, Jan. 14th, Judge Sewall handed to the Minister of the South Church his memorable confession of his part in these mournful transactions [trial of the witches] and stood to hear it read, bowing when it was finished. There is a common tradition, that on one day of every year, to the end of his long life, the good man and Magistrate kept a day of private prayer and humiliation in acknowledgment of his guilt, and in supplication for mercy." * * * * "Judge Sewall is the Pepys of New England. His diary is as quaint and racy, and as full of delicious bits of self-revealing as that of his English contemporary."

MISCELLANEOUS.

- 1084 AMES, FISHER. Distinguished statesman and orator.
A. L. S. 4to. Dedham, Dec. 17, 1795. With address.
"I have been full of impatience to hear the first doings of the house,
I am consoled by your opinion that matters will not be the worst possible. All is at risk in the point of our three branches remaining true & firm in the defense of gov't. A cowardly or divided spirit now would set all afloat again. The strength of faction lies more in the power to intimidate than to overcome the constituted authorities. The clamor against the treaty is over even in Boston, which may be termed the bell tower where anarchy rings the tocsin. In the country, the acts of our Jacobins went no further than to raise some vapors to cloud the minds of the people, but no heat, they were puzzled, and are not yet perhaps enlightened, but are not enflamed. It is vain to expect those who get wrong by the sudden impulse of feeling will get right by the tiresome labor of reasoning. Yet all who do reason are convinced & those who do not begin to be cool even in Boston & to take their opinions on trust, that is getting right as they get wrong."

Letters and Documents, Etc., Written by Abraham Lincoln; Law Books and Furniture From His Office and Furniture From His Residence, in Springfield, Illinois.

- 1542 Lincoln, Abraham. Autograph Letter, signed. 4to.
New Salem, November 10, 1835. To George Duncan, Governor of Illinois. With address.

Written at the time Lincoln was postmaster at New Salem, Ill. A very early and fine specimen.

- 1543 Lincoln, Abraham. Autograph Letter, signed. 8vo.
Executive Mansion, June 24, 1861. To the Secretary of State.

Fine specimen, written in the first year of his presidency, calling for a cabinet meeting.

- 1544 Lincoln, Abraham. Autograph Note, signed, on a visiting card. August 18, 1863.

"Sec. of the Treasury, please see this Lady who says she is the wife of a preacher who is in the war as a Captain in the 126th N. Y. She wants employment.

"Aug. 18, 1863.

A. LINCOLN."

This note is characteristic of the great man. Mrs. General Winfield Scott had evidently just left her card, and when this poor woman applied for a position, no paper being handy, Lincoln picked up Mrs.
Scott's visiting card and wrote the above short note to the Secretary of the Treasury on the back of it.

- 1545 Lincoln, Abraham. Autograph Letter, signed. 8vo.
Washington, February 3, 1862. To his law partner, William H. Herndon.

"DEAR WILLIAM.

"Yours of January 30th is just received. Do just as you say about the money matters, as you well know, I have not time to write a letter of respectable length.

- 1546 Lincoln, Abraham. Autograph Letter, signed. 4to.
Pekin, Illinois, October 3, 1853. To M. Brayman.
With address.

"Neither the county of McLean nor any on one its behalf has yet made engagements with me in relation to its suit with the Illinois Central Railroad, on the subject of taxation. I am now free to make an engagement for the Road and if you think fit you may 'count me in.'
Please write me on receipt of this." Etc., etc.

A check for $250 given by Mr. Brayman to Abraham Lincoln as a retainer, with the understanding that when the suit—McLean County vs. Illinois Central R. R. Co—for county taxes was decided he should receive $1000 more. Mr. Lincoln spent much time and labor on the case, and argued it twice before the Illinois Supreme Court, and finally winning it in December, 1855. Lincoln came to Chicago to collect his fee. Mr. Brayman was absent at the time, and the bill was presented to the superintendent. He refused to authorize the payment of the bill on the ground that it was excessive, remarking "that it was as much as a first-class lawyer would have charged." Mr. Lincoln then brought suit for $5000, less the $250 retainer. Six leading lawyers of Illinois certified that, considering the great interests at stake and the valuable points gained for the company, the charge was reasonable. Mr. Lincoln won the suit, and the company paid the bill. About ten years afterward this superintendent was nominated by the Democratic party for the presidency of the United States, and was defeated by Mr. Lincoln by more than a million majority. The railroad superintendent was Gen. Geo. B. McClellan.

Lots 1546, 1547 and 1548 should not be separated, as they form a very interesting bit of history.

- 1549 Lincoln, Abraham. A leaf from his Exercise Book. In autograph, whereon he has written his name. Folio.

The facsimile, which accompanies this catalogue, will better describe this interesting relic of the boyhood days of the great and good man more than any elaboration from my pen.

- 1550 Lincoln, Abraham. Autograph Document, signed (twice). Folio. 2 pp. April 5, 1856.

Brief, written by Lincoln, June 18, 1853, in the case of Remington K. Webster vs. George A. Rhodes and George M. Angell.

Notes on abstract of title to real estate.
- 1570 Lincoln, Abraham. Autograph Indorsement, signed. April 15, 1862.
Indorsement on a letter regarding ordnance supplies.
- 1571 Lincoln, Abraham. The original fee-book of the firm of Lincoln & Herndon, for the year 1847. 4to. 36 pages.
This book is a very interesting memento of the good man's early career as a lawyer. The moderate charges attached to the various entries show the modesty of the man and his underestimate of the value of his legal services.
- 1572 Lincoln, Mrs. Abraham. The wife of President Lincoln. Autograph Letter, signed. 4to. Chicago, April 6 (no year). To O. S. Halsted.
- 1573 Lincoln, Abraham. The dispatch sent by Abraham Lincoln to William H. Herndon, dated February 19, 1863.
This is the original dispatch, as delivered by the Illinois and Mississippi Telegraph Company, from Lincoln to his law partner, and reads: "Would you accept a job of about a month's duration at St. Louis, five dollars a day and mileage? Answer. A. LINCOLN."
Also the original addressed envelope, and an autograph letter, signed, of William H. Herndon, in which he says: "It was distinctly understood between Lincoln and myself that I wanted to hold no office under his administration, as I held the Bank Commissioner's office under Gov. Bissel, who appointed me at the solicitation and request of Mr. Lincoln."
- 1574 Lincoln's Teacher. Autograph Letter, signed, of D. F. Hanks, Abraham Lincoln's teacher. Dated February 1, 1866.
The spelling of this letter and the grammatical construction portray the limited knowledge that was simply necessary, in the early pioneer days of the West, for a man to have in order, to fill the position of schoolmaster, and gives incontestable proof that, with such a teacher, Lincoln must have been a self-made man.

- 1575 Lincoln, Abraham. A dispatch sent by Abraham Lincoln to Jesse K. DuBois at Springfield, Illinois, July 11, 1863, soon after the battle of Gettysburg.

“WASHINGTON, July 11th, 9.10 A.M.

“To Hon. Jesse K. DuBois, Springfield:

“It is certain that after three days fighting at Gettysburg, Lee withdrew and made for the Potomac. That he found the river so swollen as to prevent his crossing; that he is still this side near Hagerstown and Williamsport preparing to defend himself, and that Meade is close upon him preparing to attack him, heavy skirmishing having occurred nearly all day yesterday. I am more than satisfied with what has happened north of the Potomac, so far, and am anxious and hopeful for what is to come.

“A. LINCOLN,

“Pres't. U. S.”

Together with the letter from Lincoln DuBois mentioning the fact that this dispatch was found among his late father's papers.

- 1576 Lincoln, Abraham. Duplicate of his marriage license, filled in, in the handwriting of Abraham Lincoln. Issued by M. W. Weatherby, clerk of the county court, Springfield, Illinois, November 4, 1842. 4to.

This is the certificate of the marriage of Abraham Lincoln to Mary Todd; contains Lincoln's name in full, and is signed by Rev. Charles Dresser, the clergyman who performed the marriage ceremony. Presented to the owner by Mrs. W. H. Herndon.

- 1577 Lincoln, Abraham. A piece of the outside casket which inclosed the remains of Abraham Lincoln.

This was obtained at the time of the dedication of the National Lincoln Monument in 1874, there being present members of the Monument Association, among whom was the Vice-President, the Hon. Jesse K. DuBois, to whom this was given as a memento. The casket was opened and the remains viewed and declared to be those of Mr. Lincoln. Accompanied with a certificate of genuineness, signed by Lincoln DuBois, son of the Hon. Jesse K. DuBois.

- 1578 Lincoln, Abraham. Frame, containing a silver star and pieces of satin, crape, velvet and silver braid, which were on the dais on the catafalque on which rested the remains of Abraham Lincoln, in the Hall of Representatives at Springfield, Illinois, May 3, 1865. Here was exposed for the last time the face so dear to the nation, and here was the end of the greatest mourning procession which the world had ever beheld.

Accompanied with an affidavit of John R. Campbell, of Springfield, Illinois, who took them from the dais and the catafalque above mentioned.

LINCOLN'S LAW BOOKS.

- 1579 A volume containing the Declaration of Independence, Constitution of the United States, the first constitution of the State of Indiana, and various acts passed by its State legislature during the session of 1823-24. 8vo, boards.
- This book, although in a dilapidated form, wanting title-page and several leaves at end, was the first law book that Lincoln ever used, and is accompanied with an autograph letter signed by Wm. H. Herndon, his law partner, as to its authenticity.
- 1580 Chitty's Treatise On Pleading and Parties To Action. 3 vols. 8vo, sheep. Springfield, Massachusetts, 1844.

THE SOFA MADE TO ORDER OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

No. 1592.

ANTIQUE MAHOGANY TABLE FROM LINCOLN'S PARLOR.

LINCOLN'S FURNITURE.

1591 Antique Mahogany Haircloth Sofa.

This old mahogany veneered sofa was made by hand, at Springfield, by Daniel E. Ruckel, in 1837, for Mr. Lincoln, on his order, and used by Mr. Lincoln until February, 1861. Purchased from J. E. Roll, a resident of Springfield, who had known Mr. Lincoln since 1831. When Mr. Roll turned this memento over to Mr. Keyes, he wrote a letter explaining why he had originally been anxious to obtain possession of it. In that letter he says:—"I became acquainted with Abraham Lincoln in February, 1831, having been employed to assist him in building the second flatboat ever constructed on the Sangamon river, or in the State of Illinois, earning by that labor about 30 cents a day. (The first flatboat built sunk soon after being launched from her moorings). Mr. Lincoln was employed at that time by Mr. Offutt at a salary of $15 a month, which at that time was considered good wages for a mechanic. After Mr. Lincoln completed the boat I accompanied him as far down the river as Lemon's bend, where I bade him 'good-by,' he going on to New Orleans, where he sold the boat and the cargo. Mr. Lincoln returned to Illinois and settled in New Salem, Menard county. We were friends up to the time of his death, and I bought the sofa as a keepsake, knowing that it was made especially for him on his order, as he was unable to find one long enough for his use already manufactured."

Accompanied by the affidavits of Jacob Ruckel, testifying that he upholstered and sold the sofa to Lincoln in 1837; of John E. Roll as to its authenticity, and of Alfred A. Worth, a justice of the peace, in regard to the deponent's character.

1592 An Antique Mahogany Side Table, with white marble top. (Marble broken).

1593 Large French-plate Mirror, gilt frame.

1594 to 1599 Six Antique Mahogany Chairs, with tufted haircloth seats.

1600 Large Axminster Rug.

Lots 1592 to 1600 formed a portion of the furnishing of Abraham Lincoln's parlor, and were obtained from Mr. Allen Miller, who bought them from Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln, in February, 1861. As Mr. Miller was about to take them from the Lincoln residence, Mr. Lincoln requested that the table and one of the chairs remain, as he had some very important writing that he must attend to before leaving Springfield. Consequently, the very last writing that Mr. Lincoln did before leaving Illinois was upon this identical table and seated in one of these chairs.

Accompanied with the affidavit of the Miller family as to genuineness.

- 1601 The Old Hickory Chair in which Mr. Lincoln was sitting when he received the dispatch announcing his nomination for the presidency.

Presented to the collection by the Illinois State Journal, of Springfield, Ill. It is made of hickory withes, with a hoop-pole seat, and was for years used as the repository for exchanges in the office of the Springfield Journal. No matter who or what was in that chair when Lincoln dropped into gossip, he had to have that seat. On May 13, 1886, J. R. Stewart, editor of the Journal, sent the chair to Mr. Keyes, with a letter, in which he said: "The publishers of the Journal, having their attention called to the collection of Lincoln mementos which you are gathering, authorize me, as a means of properly rounding out the lot, to present to you the old rustic chair which has faithfully held exchanges in this office for many years, but which is now too weak in the joints to do any other service unless repaired. It is the chair in which Abraham Lincoln was sitting when he received from Chicago the dispatch announcing his first nomination for the presidency. We shall be happy if you can find some man to sit in it who is anywhere near as great as Lincoln was."

Accompanied by affidavit of J. R. Stewart, editor of the Illinois State Journal, as to its genuineness.

- 1602 Mahogany Bureau, from the bedroom of Abraham Lincoln.

Purchased by E. Figueri from Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln, in 1861. Sold to John C. Barker, May 26, 1865. Purchased for the collection from the surviving members of John C. Barker's family.

Accompanied with Figueri's affidavit as to its genuineness.

- 1603 Antique Mahogany Worktable, with pedestal base and two drawers. Owned by Abraham Lincoln.

- 1604 Antique Walnut Tête-à-tête Table. Owned by Abraham Lincoln.

The above two last items were purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln by their neighbor, J. M. Forder, just before their removal to Washington, in 1861, and remained in Mr. Forder's possession till purchased by the Lincoln Memorial Collection Association.

Accompanied by J. M. Forder's affidavit as to their genuineness.

- 1605 Walnut Table, from the bedroom of Abraham Lincoln.

Evidently used as a washhand stand. Purchased by E. Figueri from Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln, in 1861. See affidavit with lot 1602.

- 1606 Carriage Cushion used by Abraham Lincoln and family.

Presented to the "Lincoln Memorial Collection" by Major Alfred A. North, of Springfield, Ill.

ONE OF THE SIX CHAIRS FROM LINCOLN'S PARLOR.

- 1607 Old-fashioned Split-bottom Chair. Repaired for Caleb Carman by Abraham Lincoln.

With affidavit, to wit:—

“Caleb Carman, being duly sworn, deposes that the chair which is this day sold to the Lincoln Memorial Collection of Chicago, is the same chair which Abraham Lincoln repaired for me, putting in this identical bottom or seat which is now in the chair, at the time he was boarding with me at New Salem, Illinois, about the year 1835.

“For over fifty years this chair has been in my house.

“CALEB CARMEN. [SEAL]

“Subscribed and sworn before me, this twentieth day of May, A. D. 1887.

A. W. MCGRACKIN,

{ Seal County Court, }
{ Menard Co., Ill. }

“County Clerk.”

- 1608 Walnut Office Table, or Desk, used by Abraham Lincoln in his law office.

- 1609 Walnut Double-door Bookcase, which rested on the office table used by Abraham Lincoln in his law office.

- 1610 Walnut Skeleton Bookcase used by Abraham Lincoln in his law office.

- 1611 Large, Round, Wooden Inkstand used by Abraham Lincoln.

Of the inkstand his law partner writes (in a letter which accompanies it): “This inkstand was the property of Abraham Lincoln, and was kept in his office for years; and out of which he wrote ‘The-house-divided-against-itself’ speech which caused much discussion, as to its propriety, in the Republican ranks of that day. Douglas attacked it with energy, ability and vehemence, but it still lives.”

Lots 1608, 1609, 1610 and 1611 are fully authenticated by letters of Mr. W. H. Herndon, Lincoln’s law partner.

- 1612 Walnut Double-door Cupboard, from Abraham Lincoln’s house.

Purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Lincoln by Allen Miller, in February, 1861, and accompanied with affidavit as to its genuineness.

- 1613 Portrait of Abraham Lincoln.

Large cabinet photograph of Abraham Lincoln, taken in 1857, and used during the celebrated campaign between Lincoln and Douglas. This is the original photograph which was presented by Mr. Lincoln to Major Alfred North, of Springfield, Ill., remaining in his possession twenty-nine years, when he presented it to the Lincoln Memorial Collection, of Chicago, May, 1886.

- 1614 Oil Portrait of Abraham Lincoln. Life-size; three-quarter length. Painted by A. E. Darling, of Springfield, Ill. In gilt frame.

Belonged to General Mason Brayman, Lincoln's neighbor and friend. In a letter which accompanies the portrait General Brayman says:—

"The life-size oil portrait of Abraham Lincoln, which I to-day deliver to you, was painted by the artist A. E. Darling, after Mr. Lincoln's election—not before, as is shown by the fact that the whiskers were grown after that event." * * * * "Soon after Mr. Lincoln's death I purchased the picture of Mr. Darling, who resided in Springfield, for $800, and it has remained in my possession till now, nearly the whole time the chief attraction of my parlor. I prized it for its admirable fidelity, knowing Mr. L. intimately; of hundreds who came to see—all agreed with me on that point." Etc.

- 1615 Oil Portrait of Abraham Lincoln. Life size, half length. Painted by M. Yamasaki, 1886. In gilt frame.
- 1616 Lincoln, Abraham. Notes of a survey made in 1836. 4to. Together with a photograph of a letter written by A. Lincoln to A. Campbell in 1858.

RELICS OF PURITANICAL AND COLONIAL TIMES.

1649 Antique Solid Silver Pepper Box.

This interesting relic was brought from England by the Rev. John Norton ("Boston John") about 1635, who at that time emigrated from England to Plymouth, Massachusetts, and preached there during the winter of 1635. Early in 1636 he removed to Boston, and before the close of the year became minister of the church at Ipswich. He was an active member of the convention that formed the "Cambridge platform" in 1648. In 1652 he became a colleague of Rev. John Wilson as minister of the First Church at Boston, in 1662.

There is little doubt but that this Pepper Box was shaken by Miles Standish, Cotton Mather, Increase Mather, and other prominent characters of Puritan times.

From the Rev. John Norton, who was childless, it passed into the family of his brother, William, of Ipswich; thence to John, of Hingham, his son, and so on down to the present descendant and owner. The box is well preserved, and its peculiar and intimate association with the Plymouth fathers lends an historical interest to it, connecting it with the earliest days of American history.

Accompanied with affidavit as to its genuineness.

1650 Relic of "Boston John." A book, the title of which is "Ivstifying Faith: or, The Faith by Which the Just Do Live." By Thomas Jackson, Dr. of Divinitie. London, 1631. 4to, old calf.

From the library of Rev. John Norton ("Boston John"); with his autograph on the fly-leaf—"Jno Norton, many may say His Booke"—and inherited by Rev. John Norton ("Hingham John"). The book is in a remarkably fine state of preservation.

Accompanied with affidavit as to genuineness.

1651 Large Pewter Platter.

This interesting relic was brought by the Adams family from England, in the earliest days of American history. It was used as a carving-dish on the table of John Adams, second President of the United States, and by his son, John Quincy Adams, during their respective lives. As many celebrities have been served from this platter as from any other similar dish in the United States.

Accompanied with affidavit as to genuineness.

1652 Relic of the Boston Tea Party. A circular paper napkin, in imitation of lace-work.

This extremely interesting relic of the American Revolution is one of the napkins placed under each lady's plate at the reception given by the Count d'Estaing, on board of one of the French ships of the fleet then at anchor in the harbor of Boston (1780). It was the one presented, on that occasion, by a French officer, to Miss C. Cranch, who was a near relative of John Adams. Miss Cranch has written on it:—"Given me by a French officer, while I was dining on board Count d'Estaing's ship, the Tanguedor, 1780. C. CRANCH."

Accompanied with affidavit as to genuineness.
